How does "no waiting at any time" differ from the double yellow lines that are already in place in these areas? Does it mean delivery vehicles (amazon, DPD, Royal Mail, Asda, Morrisons etc) will not be able to wait while making deliveries? Without resident parking permits or visitor vouchers where else can they park? Does 'waiting' have a legal definition, e.g., 10 minutes? How can no waiting be enforced by CEO's given the temporary nature of this? Or have I misunderstood the intention of the Amendment Order? Please could someone call me to explain – thanks

I am writing to you regarding the proposal for the "no waiting at anytime" restrictions around the area I live in Chesham (amendment no. 1029). To be honest it seems that a lack of thought has gone into this idea & with it a complete waste of time & money if this is what's being suggested, I do hope whoever had this idea is questioned as to what they were thinking. The area already has badly painted yellow no parking lines which need to be re- thought in the current parking crisis. People have to park on the yellows of an evening as there's nowhere for residents to park, just by saying its "no waiting" is not going to make any difference. I have sent Councillor Mark Shaw numerous photos of certain "paradigm residents" parking on the grass verges at the end of our gardens along Victoria Road, the traffic wardens ignore these cars. Another paradigm resident had her own disabled bay marked on Victoria Road, why was this not put in the paradigm carpark? Another resident space lost to lack of planning & thought. A better option would be to either increase the permit parking hours to 6am-10pm Mon-Sat or make them 24/7, its only after the current hours finish that parking problems arise. Resurfacing the roads & then marking parking bays would also ensure that people don't park so badly that they take 2/3 spaces up. Sending smaller refuse lorries that can make the right turns & not knock the neighbours gardens walls down would also benefit the streets!
