1 Every child has the best start in life

What happens during the early years, starting in the womb, has lifelong effects on many aspects of a child's future health and wellbeing - from obesity, heart disease and mental health to educational achievement and economic status.

To ensure that every child has the best opportunity to fulfil their potential, we shall:

- Champion better outcomes for all children by supporting parents to understand child development, become confident in their skills and be supported for their children.
- Work hard to protect our most vulnerable children and young people from harm.
- Ensure that children and young people have effective support during key transition points in their childhood and into adulthood.
- Support early years providers, schools and youth centres to work with children and young people to ensure that they have the best opportunities to improve their health and wellbeing.
- Work with partners to ensure that people planning a family and new parents have access to high quality services.

2

Everyone takes greater responsibility for their own health and wellbeing and that of others

If residents make small changes to their lifestyles they can improve the likelihood that they will stay healthier for longer and increase their life expectancy.

In order to increase the number of people living healthy lives, we shall:

- Reduce the number of people who smoke
- Increase the number of people who are physically active
- Reduce the negative impact of alcohol on health & wellbeing
- Promote healthy eating

3

Everyone has the best opportunity to fulfil their potential

Most residents have good access to employment, good social networks and live in a high standard of accommodation.

However, there are some people who experience poorer health and wellbeing for a number of reasons, including where they live, poor access to services and lack of opportunities to access people care.

To maximise people's chances to fulfil their potential, we shall:

- Work with individuals, communities and key organisations to recognise the contribution of carers.
- Work with communities to reduce the number of people experiencing loneliness and social isolation.
- Work with individuals and businesses to support young people and adults with mental health or learning disabilities to access and maintain good employment.

Adding years to life and life to years

Buckinghamshire is a relatively healthy county and on average people can expect to live long and healthy lives.

However, where people live, the surrounding environment, the type of job they do, the community they live in and the places they keep will influence how long they live and how much of that life they will be healthy for.

To help people live the longest and healthiest life that they can, we shall:

- Work with key organisations to support the prevention and early diagnosis of long term conditions and where these have been identified we will support people to manage their long term condition.
- Promote good mental health and emotional wellbeing through work with schools, businesses and the wider community.
- Work with individuals and communities to protect vulnerable people from harm.
