

Members of the Board who are also elected members of a local authority are governed by their local authority's code of conduct for councillors. There is also a legal obligation for councillors to disclose certain pecuniary interests. Any members of the Board who are also councillors of a local authority will have to meet both of these requirements as well as the code of conduct of the Board.

Members of the Board who are not councillors should have regard to the 'Seven Principles of Public Life' which are:

- Selflessness
Holders of public office should act solely in terms of the public interest.
- Integrity
Holders of public office must avoid placing themselves under any obligation to people or organisations that might try inappropriately to influence them in their work. They should not act or take decisions in order to gain financial or other material benefits for themselves, their family, or their friends. They must declare and resolve any interests and relationships.
- Objectivity
Holders of public office must act and take decisions impartially, fairly and on merit, using the best evidence and without discrimination and bias.
- Accountability
Holders of public office are accountable for their decisions and actions and must submit themselves to the scrutiny necessary to ensure this.
- Openness
Holders of public office should act and take decisions in an open and transparent manner. Information should not be withheld from the public unless there are clear and lawful reasons for so doing.
- Honesty
Holders of public office should be truthful.
- Leadership
Holders of public office should exhibit these principles in their own behaviour. They should actively promote and robustly support the principles and be willing to challenge poor behaviour wherever it occurs.