Where a hackney carriage is booked under a contract for private hire for a journey which commences and finishes within the District, otherwise than while the hackney carriage is plying for hire or standing for hire at a rank, an advanced booking fee may be charged with the prior agreement of the hirer.

The maximum advanced booking fee that may be charged shall be no more than the maximum fare that is allowed under the applicable tariff set out in the above table of fares for the journey undertaken by the hackney carriage calculated from the present location of the hackney carriage (Point A) to the "pick up" location (Point B) and the return journey from the hirer's destination (Point C) back to the starting point (point A).*

*Point A to Point B +Point C back to Point A = maximum advance booking fee.

In these circumstances the maximum amount which may be charged to the passenger shall be no more than the advanced booking fee plus the fare for the journey as set out in the above table of fares.

The maximum amount that may be charged for hackney carriages used for corporate contract type work must not exceed the amount permitted under the terms of the contract.
